Dickinson Leading Thurston
In Republican
Senate Race

(By Associated Press)
DES MOINES, Ia., June 7.—Democratic Senator Guy M. Gillette's lead over Representative Otha D. Wearin continued to grow today as the face of mounting returns in Iowa's senatorial primary election.

Gillette, foe of President Roosevelt's supreme court plan, piled up 1,491 out of 2,447 precincts to 1934 for Wearin, backed by WPA.

Chief Harry L. Hopkins and tacitly supported by James Roosevelt, son of secretary of the President.

Congratulates Gillette
Don Kerlin, Wearin campaign manager, disclosed today that he had sent a congratulatory telegram to Senator Gillette.

Three other candidates for the Democratic nomination were far behind the leaders. Gillette's total polled 50 per cent of the Democratic senatorial vote cast in the all precincts.

Former Senator L. J. Dickinson piled up 89,709 votes in returns from 1,480 precincts to lead Representative Lloyd Thurston in a two-party Republican senatorial race. Thurston polled 66,957 votes in the official tabulation.

If returns continued to follow the same trend, it would not be necessary to refer the question of selecting a senatorial nominee to the Democratic state convention next month. Iowa law requires the next candidate to poll at least 35 per cent of the votes cast for the office.

Wearin's candidacy received national attention when PWA Chief Harry L. Hopkins said: "I would vote for Wearin on his record if I lived in Iowa."

Returns were scanned closely by political leaders early today for evidence of specific trends attributable to the WPA vote. Iowa has 100 project workers on its WPA list.

County Grand Jury Hears 15 Witnesses

LIBSON, June 7.—County grand jury heard approximately 15 witnesses testify in the second day of the adjourned session opened Monday.

The witnesses were called, it is believed, in connection with the bombing investigation, temporarily postponed in May when the jury resumed. Their names were not made public.

The jury may be in session longer than predicted—possibly continuing its deliberations through the week. A two-day session was thought probable when the body convened.

George Adams, law librarian, was seen as a salesman to take the case of Frank Crook, Lisbon, R. D., who was unable to serve.

Japs Defy Neutral Powers As Bombers Continue Their Rain Of Death Over China

Raids Will Be Carried On With Even Greater Vigor, Declares Rear Admiral Naokin Nomura

(By Associated Press.)
SHANGHAI, June 7.—Japan intends to carry out air raids on such cities as Canton and Hankow "with even greater vigor," Rear Admiral Naokin Nomura, chief of the special service section of the Japanese navy, declared today.

He said the bombardments would be continued to bring Chinese authorities to realize the futility of their anti-Japan attitude.

(Great Britain and France have protested and the United States has condemned air raids on civilian populations such as at Canton, where Japanese planes twice today dropped bombs.)

Admiral Nomura insisted that both Canton, through which imported munitions enter Southern China, and Hankow, provisional capital, were "fully defended" with "formidable weapons."

Canton, he said, recently had been strengthened with anti-aircraft batteries "which have been placed indiscriminately without regard of military establishments," compelling airmen to bomb from higher altitudes.

Promises to Use Care
Nevertheless, he declared, "the greatest care will continue to be exercised to insure maximum accuracy in the policy of bombing only military establishments."

Admiral Nomura urged that nationals of neutral powers withdraw from the vicinity of Chinese military establishments. He said loss of civilian life in the raids "was deeply regretted" although "undoubtedly exaggerated."

Warplanes rained death and destruction on civilian populations in Spain and China again today, France rushed reinforcements to the Spanish frontier after an "in-

STATE EMPLOYE FREED IN CASE

Hamilton County Liquor
Head Acquitted of Soliciting Funds

CINCINNATI, June 7.—Frank C. Schroer, Hamilton county supervisor of liquor stores, was acquitted today by Common Pleas Judge Alfred Mack on charges involving alleged solicitation of Democratic campaign funds from state civil service workers.

Judge Mack, before whom the case was tried without a jury, granted a defense motion for acquittal, made at the conclusion of the state's case two weeks ago. The question had been under advisement.

Judge Mack declared in his opinion that proof was lacking of "willful" violation of the state civil service law. Schroer was indicted on six counts by a grand jury which functioned simultaneously with a similar inquiry in Franklin county, (Columbus) ordered by Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy.

The indictment upon which Schroer stood trial was based on an alleged assessment upon Lonnie Stoneking, a provisional civil service employee.

Although Defense Attorney Frank K. Bowman based his motion for acquittal largely on the question of selection of provisional employees were not under civil service, losing all such status when their appointment extended beyond 90 days, Judge Mack ruled otherwise.

The court observed, however, there was evidence that Schroer, Stoneking and other witnesses knew state employees were being assessed for the campaign fund. Recalling that some testified that donations were voluntary, Judge Mack commented:

"But in view of the stated amount and the times of payment of the known assessment, it can hardly be said that the payments were voluntary contributions."

"The proof tends to show," he continued, "that defendant was 'concerned' in the solicitation of such payments. However, the proof tends to show that the defendant Stoneking was not in the classified service x x x."

SCHOOL BOARD ASKS WPA HELP IN ANNEX PLAN

Requests Election Board To Put Bond Issue On Aug. 9 Ballot

162 TO GRADUATE HERE THURSDAY

But, Supt. Kerr Points
Out, 256 Will Replace
Them In Fall

Two steps necessary towards placing before the Salem public the proposal to construct a six-room addition to the High school building were adopted by the board of education last night.

The board voted to request the Columbiana county board of elections to place on the ballots at the August 9 primary a $65,000 bond issue for the Salem public school district. The issue would be for 10 years.

Secondly, the school board approved a resolution, asking help of the Public Works Administration in financing the project.

School authorities introduced the plan to add a wing to the High school building when the board met a month ago. Board members pointed out at that time that they felt

The students at Salem High school next term may have good cold drinking water made available to them.

The installation of a cooling system for the fountains was discussed by members of the board of education at its meeting last night after Clerk George F. Koonz and Clyde Reich, member of the board, got a taste of warm water from a fountain on the second floor.

The request for the school addition is modest when the public considers the real building needs, together with the possibility of securing federal aid.

Enrollment Growing
Supt. E. S. Kerr announced last night that there are 910 students crowded into the High school today and while 162 are graduating this year, a total of 256 additional

Statutes Provide Change Of Court Where One
Is Interested

Almost submerged amid the discussions growing out of other angles of the case, the real action-at-law in the Chris Paparadis case is whether Paparadis is guilty of violating a city ordinance by exposing liquor after midnight as charged by Patrolman Clifford Todd.

Judge W. F. Lones in common pleas court yesterday designated Mayor Cecil Rauch of Lisbon to hear the case, thus taking it out of Mayor Harroff's court.

This appointment was made upon application of Paparadis, who filed an affidavit of prejudice, asking that the case be heard in a neutral court.

This is a statutory proceeding which provides that when a magistrate or judge of a court inferior to the court of common pleas is interested, related to the parties, biased or prejudiced, an affidavit of prejudice may be filed by such party or his counsel.

Such affidavit shall be referred to the presiding judge of the county who shall inquire into the matter and if he finds that such prejudice or other disqualification exists, he shall designate another magistrate of the township or the county to hear the case.

This was the only legal action taken by Judge W. F. Lones yesterday insofar as recorded among the journal entries.

There was no journal entry concerning any other phases of the case. Counsel for Paparadis disclaims Judge Lones officially upheld Mayor Harroff in jailing Paparadis.

HART CANDIDATE FOR OHIO COURT

Alliance Man Will Seek Election To Full Six-
Year Term

Judge William L. Hart of Alliance has filed his petition of candidacy for election this year to a full six-year term on the state supreme court where he served briefly in 1934.

Hart filed his petition bearing more than 6,000 signatures of voters representing 81 of the 88 Ohio counties, together with his declaration of candidacy, with the secretary of state in Columbus.

He will be a candidate at the August primaries for the Republican nomination for the term commencing January 2, 1939. Beside filling this term, Ohio electors in November will choose a judge for the term beginning January 1, as well as the chief justice.

Under a new statute, the terms of the judges begin on different days, such as January 1 and 2. Judge Edward S. Mathias will run for reelection to the January 1 term and Judge Robert Gorman, who was named to a vacancy, will run for the January 2 term.

Judge Hart served a short unexpired term on the state's highest court in 1934. He was a candidate for a full term in 1936, losing by less than 5,000 votes.

Graduate of Mount Union college and the University of Michigan, Hart has practiced law for 35 years. He is now senior member in the firm of Hart, Blumenstiel and Strong. He is a past president of the Ohio State Bar association and is prominent in the American Bar association. He is a trustee and lecturer on international law at Mount Union.

Duffy held it was not in violation of Ohio insurance laws for companies to return 15 per cent on annual premiums to motorists who drive for a year without accident.

Leslie said approximately 98 per cent of Ohio's drivers would participate in the rewards. Amounts, he said, would vary from 11.70 in Youngstown to 3.45 in rural areas.

Mrs. Campbell named Palmisano as the owner of a building at 629 Dresden avenue where she and her husband occupy a suite of rooms. The plaintiff charges that gas lines in the building were in a bad state of repair, resulting in an explosion. The gas, she says, became ignited from an unknown cause.

Both arms were disfigured by the explosion, Mrs. Campbell states. She was also burned about the face and neck and suffered a permanent nervous shock.

A CLUE

This country now sets out to do, officially, what many citizens have been doing unofficially—study the British labor disputes act.

It doesn't matter greatly that in making the announcement, President Roosevelt insists the commission to be sent abroad for the purpose will concentrate on what's wrong with the British act. That won't keep the public in general from making comparisons with the national labor relations act in this country.

A clue is furnished for this comparison by the titles of the two laws. The British law, as its title implies, deals with the specific subject of labor disputes. The American law deals with the subject of labor relations, a vague phrase.

The British law was brought about by a revulsion of proper feeling after the general strike of 1926. The American law was brought about by a movement inside the government to increase the power of trade unions.

The purpose of the British law is to reduce labor disorder by restricting the rights of unions and establishing machinery for mediation. The purpose of the American law is to promote unionism by giving to unions privileges which are not similarly made available to employers.

In unionism, as in many other things, Great Britain has gone through the mill of experience. It learned a decade ago that unionism is not sacred. That doesn't mean the United States won't learn the same thing in due course of time, nor does it mean that a commission instructed to find out what's wrong with the British labor law will be able to conceal there are some things wrong with the American law, too.

TIPPY, TIPPY

"A remedy for tipping? Ah, that is something we would like to know about!" exclaimed Capt. H. Mowrey, executive secretary of the Ohio Hotel association, which would like to abolish the practice.

This is a fairly simple thing to straighten out. People tip for one or more of three reasons: To reward special service, to give money to persons they think are underpaid, and to maintain self-esteem.

The greatest of these is No. 3—self-esteem. It accounts for all the tipping which is neither reward for special service, nor a gesture of charity. Most tipping is of this category.

So all that needs to be done is to give potential tippers play money (the kind they pass out at "millionaire" parties) and let them distribute that. A hotel, for instance, could give the guest a wad of this phony lucre when he signs the register.

In case he wanted to pay for genuine special service, he could dig into his pocket for some of the real thing. Or, if he thought the help was being underpaid, he could take that up with the management.

Silly, isn't it? But no more so than periodic and sporadic attempts to do away with tipping without doing away first with the causes of tipping.

MORAL MEDICINE

Ladling out moral medicine to a world which needs it is an American hobby. There's no reason for being ashamed of it.

Secretary of State Hull says he is "certain that no legitimate differences that may arise among nations are incapable of settlement by peaceful means." No one dares to deny that's true.

But the fact remains that the men who control the policies of nations often are not only incapable of settling by peaceful means the differences that arise between nations, but actually unwilling.

Militarism is not a scourge which leaps out of nowhere to make man's lot on earth miserable, but a policy of political control deliberately developed for the furtherance of ambition. Moral medicine hasn't cured belligerency in human nature yet.

There will be peace when men want peace so intensely they will not tolerate war under any circumstances. In the meantime, Uncle Sam will continue to ladle out moral medicine, remembering his countrymen hope, to take enough of it himself to sustain him in any crisis which may start his blood boiling.

FRANCE BOOSTS AFRICAN WAR STRENGTH

PARIS—(Correspondence of The Associated Press)—

France's national defense cabinet is convinced that a war with Italy would be decided in Africa. France, therefore, has built a powerful self-reliant north African military machine.

France's standing armed forces, guarding the world's second largest colonial empire, count between 900,000 and 1,000,000 men.

Of these troops the "metropolitan army" covering North America and continental France consists of about 500,000 men. How many of these are stationed in Morocco, Algeria and Tunis is a war ministry secret.

Begin Defense Plan

Sources close to Premier Edouard Daladier indicated May 18 he had only begun to strengthen the national defense by ordering the recruiting of 60,000 native troops in Tunisia and the planning of a Tunisian fortified line facing Italian Libya.

Many French military experts believe Italy's first blow at France would be a drive for possession of Tunisia to give her a direct line from Italy across the Mediterranean sea lanes.

Daladier's government finally has completed a program putting the North African forces on an independent footing so that they can fight even though isolated from continental France.

War ministry attention has been concentrated chiefly on Tunisia, where a frontier running through a few miles of fertile seaboard country, then through hundreds of miles of trackless desert, separates the French empire from Italian Libya.

In Europe six main roads cross the mountain frontier between Italy and France. On the French side they spread out over a "front" more than 300 miles long but on the Italian side they all lead to the fertile Po river valley.

That French experts say, means Italy is open to an attack from France but faces an almost impossible offensive problem.

Such reasoning is behind the fortification of Tunisia's eastern frontier with hundreds of little concrete blockhouses, tank pits, fortified barracks and other defenses.

Garrisons On Guard

Strongly fortified desert garrisons guard the vast region west of the Gebel El Garb and dot almost every oasis and caravan route along the huge expanse of the Sahara desert west of the Libyan border.

Crack Arab Cavalrymen, cream of the French desert forces, ride the shifting sands between the desert garrisons, some on horses and some on camels.

Volcano at Manila Is Erupting Again

MANILA, June 7.—Inactive for ten years, the Mayon volcano, which more than a century and a quarter ago buried an entire village in lava, again is spouting flame, smoke and molten rock.

The volcano began erupting Friday night, authorities here were informed. It is about 200 miles south-east of Manila.

Weather observers said lava was rolling down the sides of the mountain and that about every four hours columns of flames, smoke and rock were hurled high in the air. Slight earthquakes accompanied each eruption.

That, however, is only a small part of France's preparations to defend her north African colonies against Italy.

New roads have been constructed through Morocco and Algeria, bringing the enormous manpower and resources of both regions to the threshold of Libya.

Huge tank stations for motor fuel, warehouses filled with food and dumps holding great stores of munitions are spread throughout French north Africa.

New aviation bases with underground hangars have been built in Morocco and Algeria. Harbors along the Algerian and Tunisian coasts have been improved and fortified as bases for the French fleet.

Desert caravan routes to the French colonies in deeper Africa are closely guarded. They are "life lines" between north Africa and France's vast "back reservoir" of man power and food supplies there.

In 1814 an eruption of the volcano buried a village, killing 1,200 persons.

Institute Tackles Problem Of Stream Pollution By Meals

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—Science tackled the perplexing problem of stream pollution by steel mills today with the backing of the $5,000,000 steel industry itself.

The Mellon Institute of Industrial Research launched the study at the request of the American Iron and Steel Institute, representing 90 per cent of the nation's steel producers.

Wastes from the mills kill thousands of fish annually, make streams unfit for swimming, increase the costs of filtration for drinking and commercial purposes, and sometimes create a menace to health. Some states have adopted anti-pollution laws but many of the principal industries are exempt until practical methods of treating the waste have been devised.

The institute experiments, incorporating new ideas for attacking the problem, will be applied first on a small scale and then, as justified, to mills throughout the nation.

An executive of the Mellon Institute said the "investigation will be carried on thoroughly until concluded to the satisfaction of health and industrial authorities to safeguard fish and recreation, such as swimming," in rivers of industrial regions.

One phase of the research will be the aim of "recovering chemical waste" from steel mills with the purification and treatment of salts from which useful products can be made economically.

Waste liquors include those from the "pickling" processes of the iron and steel mills by which the metals are treated with sulfuric acid to remove oxides prior to tinning and galvanizing.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City.

NEURALGIA

Few other afflictions are more annoying than "Bell's palsy," also known as "facial" or terminal neuralgia.

As one of its names indicates, this is a form of neuralgia which occurs in the face. The victim complains of intermittent attacks of pain along the course of the facial nerve.

Though its actual cause is still unknown, modern science now offers the victims of this affliction some measure of relief. Not so long ago, little help could be offered. Then, indeed, it was a dreadful affliction.

In some instances the cause is so apparent that it can be determined. These are the cases associated with pressure upon, or purely local inflammatory changes in the facial nerve itself. For example, a person may suffer an injury from a blow, a fall or other damage to the tissues overlying this nerve. It is to be expected that if the nerve is injured, the part it supplies will be affected in some manner.

Periodic Attacks

In facial neuralgia the victim has periodic attacks of intense stabbing or burning pain. Touching the tender area, or even exposing ing the face to a draught, may bring on an attack of pain. This is a sign of the disease.

The pain is always quite severe. It is usually accompanied by a spasm or knotting of the muscles on the afflicted side of the face. The skin becomes flushed and the eyes water. Sometimes the mouth fills with saliva. After the acute attack the patient may go for a long period of time without pain.

Do not confuse simple neuralgia or neuritis with what we are here discussing, true facial neuralgia. The former is a mild and passing ailment, while the other is a more obstinate and serious disturbance. Whatever the cause, or wherever the pain is located, consult with your doctor. He will outline the necessary treatment.

"Love I Dare Not" by ALLENE CORLISS

CHAPTER XXXVI

They had something for each other. Caroline was sure of this. And if Tommy would be utterly honest with her and with himself, he would have to admit that he was sure of it, also. It had been there that first day.... and try as he might to ignore it, or deny it, it had been there ever since. But she had made the mistake of thinking that what they had was the sort of thing that went on and on.... she had made the mistake of thinking that called for the marriage service.... "to have and to hold.... in sickness and in health.... for better or for worse.... love everlasting."

And it wasn't of course. That is, she wasn't. Tommy was sure of this. And now she had to give him that it wasn't as far as she was concerned. That is, that it wasn't any more. Somehow she had to show him, in the little time that was left to them, that if she didn't have what she wanted from him, she would take what he could give. Because she knew now, beyond all doubt, that if she didn't, she would never have anything at all, and she had to have something.

Tommy stopped pacing up and down the rug and came and stood before her, frowning down at her. "Here," he said, in his voice harsh, "this isn't going to be any good. We both know that. Let's go over it again...."

"Yes," said Caroline, "I'm afraid I have to. Just this once more. You see, I've been thinking about you and me, Tommy, and I've decided something...."

"Yes," said Tommy, "What have you decided?"

"I've decided that I want to be one of those girls you love and love, Tommy...."

She slid to her feet suddenly and put her arms around his neck and laid her cheek against his.

For a moment he stood utterly still, trembling all over. Then he reached her arms away from his neck and flung her back angrily against the red sofa.

He stood looking down at her, his face twisted grotesquely....

"Why you.... you...." suddenly his voice broke on a harsh sob, "why you're no better than a common little...."

"Stop!" Her slim body was pressed back tautly against the red sofa, her voice was horribly still. "You can't talk like that to me, you can't do it! I love you...."

"You love me.... well, let me tell you something," His hands were gripping her shoulders now. He was making her mercilessly. "I love you too. I love you so much that I could choke you for coming here like this.... two-timing Alec."

"No," said Caroline, "I'm not two-timing Alec. It seems he doesn't love me, either. He wants Gina, instead. He's always wanted her."

"Say that again," demanded Tommy, and now his hands were hurting her shoulder, but she didn't mind the pain, "say it again.... that make me wait to hear it."

She said it again, and the words were crushed back against her lips as he picked her up in his arms and kissed her mouth. When he had done kissing her, he said, "You precious little fool, why didn't you tell me straight out.... why did you have to put us both through such hell?"

And it was not until he saw the bewildered expression on her face that he realized he still had to make her understand about Alec and why, if Alec had wanted her, he couldn't have had her.

Presently, and when she did understand, he held her away from him for a moment to say, laughing down at her with grim tenderness, "Still want to be one of the girls I love and love, Caroline?"

She shook her head. "No, darling. I want to be the girl you love and marry and live with forever after.... it's what I always wanted.... the other wouldn't have been any good to either of us, really."

Suddenly she saw his face stiffen and grow withdrawn. She pushed his arms away from her and said, "What's wrong, now?" her voice shaken.

"Everything. We thought we'd solved all our problems.... well, we haven't even begun."

She stared at him, her eyes tortured. "I don't think I understand. I thought you loved me, Tommy.... enough to want to marry me. I thought that was what you wanted, too."

"You don't suppose, do you?" his voice was grim, hard, "that I'd take you any other way, do you? No, you know damn well I wouldn't."

"Then what?"

"Then this.... there's your job.... and mine, isn't there.... and several hundred miles between them?"

"Yes," said Caroline slowly. "Would you have taken this new job if you had known about this.... about us?"

Tommy moved away from her, sat down on the red sofa and clenched his hands about his head. "I don't know. I can't honestly answer that without thinking about it. But it's something we have to think about now."

"It means a lot to you, doesn't it? This chance to go north tomorrow on this job?"

The room was very quiet as he answered. Except for the beat of rain against the windows, the faint rattle of wind in the chimney, there was no sound, except their own light breathing.

"I suppose," said Tommy at last, "that there are only two really important things in any man's life, his work and the woman he loves. I suppose," he added quietly "that they are more equally important than most men ever want to admit. I can stay here in New York, Caroline, and make a living of a sort.... but not one that I could be proud of, not one I could take any joy in. I know. I know exactly what you mean."

And, Tommy thought miserably, "Of course you do.... because you feel exactly the same way about your own work.... your own career."

He said despairingly: "Darling, you got awfully good reviews on this new play, didn't you? The boys who decide those things think you are going to have a howling success as an actress, don't they?"

Caroline smiled faintly. "They seem to, Tommy. And Sam has given me a run-of-the-play contract...."

Suddenly Tommy's face looked tired and young and a little beaten. But he managed to contrive a smile, gay enough if you didn't happen to notice his eyes. "Well, that settles it, I guess. I'll go along without you. But you'll wait for me, won't you, sweet? After all, two years isn't so long to wait when two people love each other as much as we do."

But Caroline shook her head. "No, Tommy, I won't wait. That is, I don't want to wait two years. But I'll try to wait two months. That is as long as this play will run even with the critics' crazy about it. In two months, then, she finished, her voice shaken and sweet, "I'll join you and we'll be married."

"But you can't do that, Caroline!" Tommy was scowling darkly in spite of the fact that when she said "and we'll be married," her voice light and breathless like that, his heart had plunged crazily with delight. "You've got to think of your own career—all the glory you've worked so hard for."

"You always," she told him steadily, looking straight at him, a little tremor about her lips, her eyes unwavering, "thought that was more important to me than it ever was. For a long time now, I have known beyond all doubt that there was only one career.... one kind of glory.... that meant anything to me.... and that was one that we could share together, Tommy.... and it's not here in New York.... it's up there where your job is, in northern Canada...."

Tommy lifted her hands and held them against his lips. His own hands were trembling, his eyelids were wet. "I really believe you mean that.... I believe you mean every word of it...."

"Of course, I mean it," Caroline said. "I mean it so much I don't even mind waiting two months."

"Don't you?" said Tommy, taking her into his arms again, seeking eagerly for her lips. And presently he said, his voice fiercely unsteady, "I think you do, sweet.... I think you mind it every bit as much as I do...."

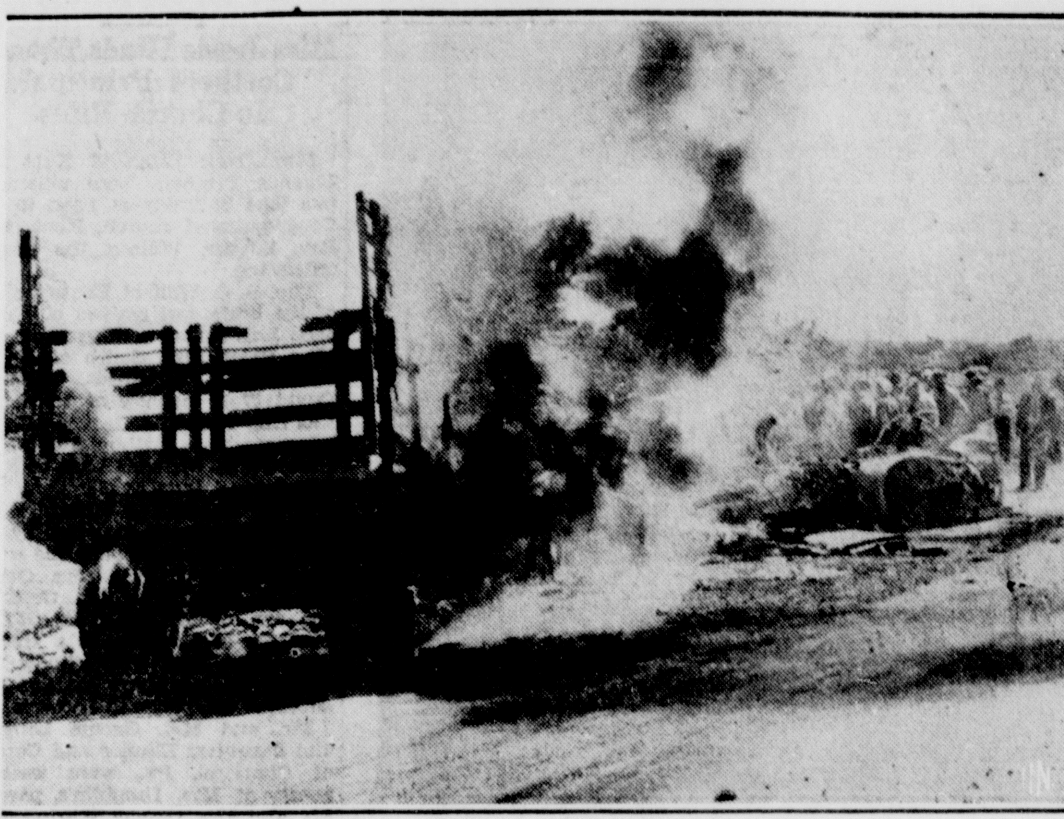

"You wouldn't like it if I didn't, would you?" whispered Caroline.

"You're darn right I wouldn't!" he admitted huskily. Then he said, his face bending over hers again, "But I'd wait half a lifetime for you.... if I had to.... if I couldn't have you any other way...."

And Caroline, listening to him, knew he spoke the truth.

In London, in the flat on Half

Where Four Died in Truck-Bus Crash

En route to Oklahoma City, the bus in the background, occupied by a San Antonio, Tex., dance orchestra crashed into the truck, foreground, and burst into flames, setting the truck afire. The crash occurred near Stephenville, Tex. Both drivers and two others were killed.

Moon street, it was four o'clock. The parchment silk curtains were already drawn against the deep fog outside. The parchment shaded lamps were lighted and the turkey-red carpet was streaked with fire-light.... and on the hearth the kettle boiled merrily....

Gina finished reading a letter and handed it back to Alec, her hand trembling badly as she did so. She waited, her face lifted to his, her lips parted mutely, her breath catching softly in her throat....

Alec caught her hand and held onto it.

"It seems," he said, "that I am not going to marry Caroline, after all." Then he said, his voice trying desperately to sound amused and unimportant because he knew that for both of them this was as important and solemn a moment as they would ever live. "That being the case, I suggest that you and I get married as soon as possible and give up all idea of going back to New York for at least a year...."

Good taste is expressed, too, in every soft gather of the bodice panel and tie, and in the dignity of the adjustable self belt. Another fact to appreciate is that there are three sleeve versions.

Minerva's Legion Post Is Winner In Membership Event

The Congressman Imhoff trophy for American Legion membership in the 18th Ohio congressional district during 1938 has been awarded to post 357, at Minerva, Carroll county, according to an official announcement from department headquarters, Columbus.

Accordingly the Minerva veterans will obtain possession of a large American flag with an unusual and historic background. It has the distinction of having seen service over the dome of the U. S. Capitol, over the U. S. senate and the house of representatives.

Formal notice of the award has been sent to the commander of Minerva post by Congressman Imhoff himself a Legionnaire.

Minerva, on May 30, 1938, closed date for the contest, had 85 members against their 49 for July 1937, a percentage of 173.47. In second place was Salmville, in Columbiana county, with 101 members on May 30, compared with 62 for 1937. Neffs, of Belmont county, finished third with a percentage of 132.56, having 53 members of May 30, compared with 40 last July.

Then in order came post 34, at Cadiz, Harrison county, with 126 per cent, post 380 of Steubenville, Jefferson county, with 125 per cent, post 475 of Delroy, Carroll county, with 111.43 per cent, post 521 at Strasburg, Belmont county, with 107.69 per cent, and Leetonia, Columbiana county, with 103.13 per cent.

students will be coming in next fall to boost the enrollment over the 1,000 mark.

The High school building, as it is today, can comfortably accommodate 600 pupils, he explained.
If the WPA approves the project and if the voters pass on the bond issue, the government will advance a grant to take care of 45 per cent of the total estimated cost.

Plans already have been prepared for the six-room annex which would be placed at the left rear of the present structure. Housed in the proposed addition would be a new library and machine shop. The present library room would be converted into a class room.

The board last night approved the offer of the Akron WPA office to set up a cleaning project for the Salem schools, the work to be done this summer. The board's expense in the project will be to furnish the necessary materials and equipment.

The board also okayed the renewal of its contract with the state department for vocational education.

Plan Summer Classes

The use of a limited number of school rooms by teachers who may be interested in conducting summer school classes was approved.

Members Clyde Reich, E. S. Dawson and Atty. Joel Sharp were named as a committee to investigate a petition being circulated school.

Mrs. Peter Grove of Franklin st., to donate to Columbia school a triangular strip of land between the southern end of the school property and S. Landy ave.

Miscellaneous bills amounting to $2,141 were approved by the board.
Next month's meeting was scheduled for July 5.

JAPAN DEFIES OTHER POWERS

Bombers continue to Rain
Death From Planes
Over China

"vision" of mystery planes and Ecuador accused Peru of massing troops in border garrisons despite assurances that she would not.

In China, Canton was bombed heavily in two Japanese air raids which added to the 6,000 casualties already inflicted upon the south China metropolises. The areas bomarded today, however, had been evacuated because of previous raids and it was believed casualties were small. It was the 11th successive day of bombings for the Canton area.

Urgent air attacks on cities along Spain's Mediterranean seaboard yesterday caused at least 132 deaths.

Daladier Tours Frontier

France's Premier Edouard Daladier, who spent the night in a tour of areas along the Spanish frontier, took personal command of military preparations to repel further invasions of French territory by warplanes from Spain.

He made it clear he considered the repeated aerial attacks by planes of "unknown nationality" deliberate and a grave threat of war.

"We will not have war if we are strong and decided," the premier asserted.

Tension between Ecuador and Peru, growing out of their dispute over the Oriente jungle territory, increased when the Ecuadorian foreign office charged Peru was reinforcing her border garrisons with troops, bombing planes and gun-boats.

Previous assertions in Quito that Peru had strengthened her military forces at Tumbes near the Pacific coast were denied at Lima Saturday.

Today's Ecuadorian communique said, however, the government had been informed Peru intended to occupy Natapolo Island at the entrance of the Gulf of Guayaquil.

Locked In Battle
Meanwhile hundreds of thousands of weary troops in Spain and China

Yellow river floods threatened to submerge central China's battlefields as Japan's armies, beginning the 11th month of the war, drove deeper into the interior.

Pushing rapidly along the Lunghai railway, Japanese forces reported they had advanced to within 22 miles of Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow railways. They also said a mechanized column had occupied a village within 10 miles of the Peiping-Hankow line south of Chengchow and started a pincer movement from the southwest to encircle the city.

In Spain, the entire eastern front was deadlocked, lines remaining virtually unchanged for the fifth consecutive day.

O. EDISON WINS OVER VETERANS IN CLOSE GAME

Old Timers Suffer First Defeat In Class A 2nd Round Race

Proving that the defending champion Old Timers are not entirely invincible, the Ohio Edison up and coming softball team upset the veterans, 3 to 2, in one of two Class A league games at Centennial park last evening.

The defeat was the first of the second round for the Old Timers and their second set-back in 11 games so far this season. It was the third straight victory of the second round for the Ohio Edison and the most important of their six victories to date.

The win kept the Ohio Edison in first place, tied with Mullins Foremen who have won two games and lost none in the second round championship race. The Edisonites will go after their third victory this evening when they face the tough Nameless Wonders.

Five errors by the Old Timers played a major role in helping the Ohio Edison to gain its third consecutive victory. The winning run in the seventh inning was scored on an error at the plate.

The Edisonites opened the scoring with two runs in the first frame and held the lead until the last half of the third inning when the Old Timers brought in two markers to tie the count. The score remained deadlocked until the first of the seventh inning when the O. E. team scored what proved to be the winning run.

The veterans outbit the Edisonites, 8 to 5, but for once couldn't make their best blows count. Ward was the winning pitcher for the Ohio Edison. George Easley was on the mound for the Old Timers.

The Trades Class chalked up its first win of the season in its second victory of the season in the other Class A game, trouncing Demings, 8 to 1.

Three runs in the second inning, three in the third and two in the seventh gave the Tradesmen their victory. The Pumpmakers scored their lone marker in the seventh frame.

Pitcher Bill Miller of the Trades Class limited Demings to two hits in turning in his best twirling job of the season. McQuiston was on the hill for Demings, allowing 11 safe blows.

The Class B league opened its second round race last evening with the Columbians and Friends gaining victories. The Columbians took the measure of the Christians, 12 to 0, while the Friends walloped the Trinity Lutherans, 19 to 6.

William (Gubby) Guappone hurled one-hit ball in blanking the Christians.

Sam Snead

One of the most imposing fields in a national open golf tourney in recent years is assembled at Denver to try and wrest the title from Ralph Guldahl, defending champion. Among the favorites to finish near the top is Sam Snead who has been belting them with abandon recently. Cherry Hills course, scene of the tourney, should be negotiated by the winner in about 250.

BERGER TRADED TO CINCINNATI

Alex Kampouris Goes To Giants In Deal For Out-fielder

CINCINNATI, June 7.—Wally Berger, the hard hitting out-fielder who formerly established records for his old boss, Manager Bill McKechnie, in a Boston Bees uniform, was back with the skipper today as a Redleg.

In a trade with the New York Giants yesterday, Berger was exchanged in a straight player deal for Second Sacker Alex Kampouris. Everybody appeared satisfied, for Manager Bill Terry had sought frantically for a second baseman on every stop on his western tour. He found his chance here as McKechnie was looking for a good right handed hitter.

McKechnie knew what Berger could do, for the veteran outfielder drove in 357 runs for the Bees from 1933 to 1936. He holds a lifetime batting average of .304 and has driven in 780 runs in his eight years in the majors. He led the National league in runs batted in and homers in 1935.

The Bees sold Berger to the Giants last year for $40,000. Kampouris, who hit for an average of .249 last season and socked 17 homers, entered into the deal with the Redlegs. The Giants came back with a vengeance yesterday to take the final of the series, 11 to 2. Starting off the first inning with five runs which sent Al Hollingsworth to the showers in a hurry, they garnered 10 hits off three Red pitchers. Ernie Lombardi's homer in the second inning and Harry Craft's triple which lent McCormick home in the fourth accounted for the Redleg runs.

Either Gene Schott or Paul Derringer was scheduled to face Wayne Lemaister on the mound in the opener with the Phillies today. The second night game of the season is scheduled with the cellar dwellers tomorrow night.

Leading Harness Horses Race At Canton Meeting

Six Nights of Racing Planned For Stark County Fairgrounds; 300 Horses to Participate

CANTON, June 7.—Canton, home of the finest and fastest half-mile track in the country, will become the mecca for harness racing fans from all over Ohio and adjoining states June 10 when the cream of harness horses converges on the city for six nights of racing.

Recognized as the finest meet of its kind ever held in Canton, it also is considered by many of the country's grand circuit drivers as the outstanding event scheduled over short split circuits this season. The fine track at the Stark County fairground over which many of the country's leading harness horses have run, played a large part in bringing out a field of more than 300 of the best horses in the country. Owners of many large stables were anxious to participate in the Canton event to enable their drivers to try their horses over a track that has been recognized among the country's fastest.

This is of particular interest to harness racing fans in Stark, Columbiana, Carroll, Holmes, Wayne, Ashland, Summit, Tuscarawas, Mahoning and Jefferson counties because of their close proximity to Canton. Since the races have been scheduled at night, the schedule is expected to bring out a large number of racing fans who ordinarily do not have an opportunity to take in races except during the county fairs. Outstanding feature of the Canton program, sponsored by the Canton Driving Park Co., will be the

MAX SCHMELING WANTS MANAGER IN HIS CORNER

German Asks Commission To Restore Second's License to Joe Jacobs

By GAYLE TALBOT. SPECTACULAR, N. Y., June 7.—One arrives here in the high Adirondacks just in time to learn that Max Schmeling is preparing to make a ringing personal appeal to the New York State Athletic commission to restore a second's license to Joe Jacobs.

Max has decided that he wants his manager of record in his corner when he starts taking pot shots at Joe Louis again on the night of June 22 at Yankee stadium. He plans, he says, to button-hole Brig. Gen. John J. Phelan, commission chairman, when the latter makes an expected appearance here in the next few days. If that doesn't work he's in a humor to go higher, maybe to Gov. Herbert Lehman.

As matters stand, Jacobs would not be permitted without yielding distance of Max's corner on the night of the big scrap. He lost his second's diploma during the past winter when the commission developed a temporary peeve at Tony Galento, who also is managed by the "Muscle."

Joe recently made an unsuccessful attempt to gain reinstatement. Joe has been in the Schliager

Quizzed by G-Men

Betty Howard

Pinning their hopes on finding the kidnapers of James Bailey Cash, Jr., of Princeton, Fla., through tracing the registered bills used in ransom payment, G-men questioned Betty Howard, barmaid at a Miami establishment, as to her acquaintanceship with one of the suspects in the case.

Authorities Stirred By New Kidnaping Wave

Police List Seventeen Important Cases Since 1932

NEW YORK—Aroused by the increasing number of kidnapings, authorities are considering new ways to wipe out the problem and avoid additional cases.

Almost simultaneously with the finding of the body of Peter Levine, 12, off the shores of Long Island, came the report of another abduction in Miami, Fla., where five-year-old James Bailey Cash, Jr., was snatched from his crib. Ten thousand dollars ransom was paid by his father to the kidnapers.

Discovery of the Levine boy's body only confirmed the fears of his parents and police who had virtually given up hope of his safe return after weeks passed without a clue. Despite the father's offer to pay the $30,000 ransom demanded, the kidnapers made no contact with the go-between delegated.

The Levine kidnaping is the third child whose abduction ended in death. Baby Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., snatched from his home near Hopewell, N. J., on March 1, 1932, was the first and Charles Mattson, 10-year-old son of a Tacoma, Wash., physician was the second.

$730,000 Ransoms Paid
Scores of suspects have been questioned in connection with the Mattson boy's death but so far the search has been fruitless. His nude and battered body was found 10 days after the kidnaping about 75 miles from his home. Two other Mattson children were present when Charles' abductor broke into the home but they have been unable to identify the criminal.

There have been six major child kidnapings since 1932 when the Lindbergh baby was stolen from his nursery. Peggy McMath, 10, of Harwichport, Mass., was kidnaped May 3, 1933, $80,000 ransom paid, and Kenneth Buck sentenced to 24 years in prison for the crime. June Robles, six, of Tucson, Ariz., was kidnaped April 25, 1934, but recovered three weeks later without payment of ransom. George Weychauer, nine, of Tacoma, Wash., was abducted on May 24, 1934, and returned on June 2 after payment of $200,000 ransom. William Mahon, an ex-convict, was sentenced to 60 years in prison for the crime. The three other cases are Mattson, Levine and the Cash boy.

Eleven other kidnapings, all of adults, have occurred within the past five years. Ransom money totaling $730,000 has been paid for their return. Three of the victims met death at the hands of their assailants.

One of the greatest difficulties encountered by authorities in cleaning up the situation is the natural fear that parents and families have that the victim will suffer if the search is pressed. When the trail grows dim and the clues get cold, it is difficult to make a successful investigation.

In the Levine case further complications confused the picture when "chiselers" attempted to extort ransom money without having any real connection with the kidnaping. In following down these various clues, much valuable time was lost and the real criminal's getaway aided.

Sun Spots Termed Best Refrigerator By College Teacher

(By United Press)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Sun spots are the best refrigerator known to man, and they work on the same principle as man-made refrigerators, according to Prof. John W. Evans, acting chairman of the University of Minnesota astronomy department.

He explained that "the heated gas expands and cools the atmosphere. While the temperature of the sun is 10,800 degrees Fahrenheit, the center of this whirlpool is only 7,200 degrees. The sun spot could make an object taken from the sun's atmosphere 3,600 degrees cooler."

Magnetic storms seem to correlate closely with the appearance of sun spots, he said. The aurora borealis also apparently is correlated with sun spots crossing the sun. Experiments at the University of Arizona have proved that trees grow better at a maximum period of the sun spots, he said.

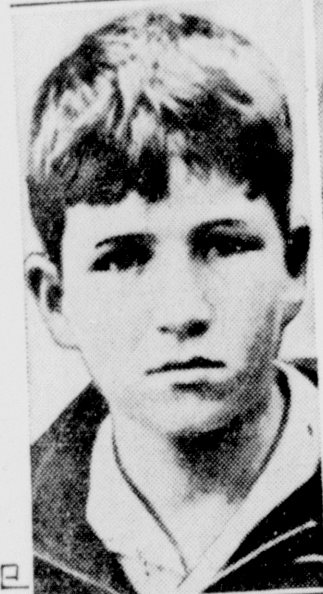

"Although the sun spots appear black," he said, "if all light from the sun were shut off, they would be too bright to look at. If an observer from another planet saw our tornadoes, they would appear similar to the sun spots, which travel at a rate of 150 miles a second."

The spots are so large—100,000 miles in diameter—that our earth could be dropped through the center "and it would be lost somewhere in the core," Evans said.

Theater Attractions

Joan Blondell and Melvyn Douglas are filmed together for the first time in "There's Always a Woman," which shows tonight and Wednesday at the State theater.

The comedy gives Miss Blondell the role of a new operator of the defunct private detective agency formerly owned by her husband, played by Douglas. Douglas has been reinstated as assistant to the district attorney.

On Opposite Sides
Comes a murder with Douglas assigned to it by the district attorney. He finds his wife, acting as private investigator, opposing his sleuthing at every step until finally they wind up with the husband representing the state and the wife representing the accused murderer.

He finds it necessary to take steps to prohibit his wife from withholding and destroying evidence—that would convict her client, whom Miss Blondell does not believe guilty.

In the supporting cast are Mary Astor, Frances Drake, Robert Paige, Jerome Cowan and Thurston Hall. Douglas made his first comedy appearance in "Theodora Goes Wild" and has since been seen in several of the better recent films. He has played in "She Married Her Boss," "I Met Him In Paris," "Captains Courageous" and "I'll Take Romance."

Miss Blondell's latest screen appearances have been in "The King and the Chorus Girl" and "The

Damascus Man In Court for Perjury

Gilbert McDonald, Damascus gangster, has entered a plea of not guilty before Judge J. A. Bowman in municipal court at Canton to an affidavit charging him with perjury in connection with his testimony in the recent second degree manslaughter trial of Roy Brooks of Sebring.

Preliminary hearing was set following arraignment for July 1, and bond of $4,000 was continued.

No Doubt

BRISTOL, Conn.—Vito Dippio was afraid the $2 bill someone gave him was counterfeit, so he showed it to police.

Instead of "two dollars" the bill denomination read "two rollers." Under Jefferson's picture was printed: "The guy's a sucker who accepts this."

Police agreed with Dippio that the bill was worthless.

TECUMSEH, Okla.—A Tecumseh squirrel hunter, worried because his dogs would not stay home, has solved his problem. He has fastened yokes around the dogs' necks so they can't get through his fences.
